Orangemen's Picnic.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The Orangemen have decided not to parade in this city but to honor King William, of glorious and pious memory, by a grand excursion and picnic July 12th.

Another Sensation in the Brooklyn Case.

NEW YORK, June 10.—A Brooklyn evening paper has given to sensation, says it is understood that new and important evidence bearing directly upon the issue in the great trial has been unearthed; the facts gathered have been submitted to certain lawyers in Brooklyn and they declare that it is of great significance as affecting the main charge brought by Tilton against Beecher. An investigation is now in progress and it is thought an action may be commenced on the basis of new found evidence.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, June 10.—Wool in steady demand at unchanged prices, manufacturers buying in small lots. No indications as yet apparent of improvement in the immediate future. It is believed that wool is held altogether too high in the interior and manufacturers and dealers will hesitate to buy at rates now generally asked. The only wool for which a good range of prices can be looked for are desirable lots of medium fleeces and combing and delaine fleeces [illegible] prices demanded for these are not also higher than will be sustained. Sales of Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces have been at 55@54 cents according to quality. Wisconsin and Michigan fleeces 48@50 cents, combing and delaine fleeces at 50@61 cents as to quality. New Kentucky combing is held at 60 cents but buyers pay this price reluctantly in super and ex pulled; the sales have been 35@60 cents. California continues in fair demand and has been selling at 25@[illegible] cents.

No Gold Found yet in the Black Hills.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—A dispatch from Professor Jenney of the Black Hills expedition dated Camp on Beaver Creek June 5th says the greater area of the Black Hills is in Dakota. The formation in the vicinity of the recent geological survey is not auriferous and he will cross through the Hills and examine the gold fields reported to exist near Harney's Peak.

Explosion of a Tug Boat—Three Killed.

BUFFALO, June 10.—The tug R. P. Hefferd exploded her boiler at 6 A. M. near the lower part of Central wharf and killed Capt. James Hurd, engineer Edward Day, a resident of Cleveland, and a fireman unknown. A fireman was also seriously injured. The cause of the explosion is unknown. The boat was blown to atoms and the wreck sank. The force of the explosion was so great that the body of Capt. Hand was thrown over a four story building 150 feet across the street. The body of engineer Day sank in the harbor.

Maryland Democratic Convention.

BALTIMORE, June 9.—The Democratic State convention to nominate a governor, controller and treasurer is called at Baltimore for July 21st.

Indictment of Silk Smugglers.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The grand jury of the U. S. circuit court to-day found indictments against H. B. Claflin of the firm of Claflin & Co. and Wm. H. Talcott, silk buyer of the firm, for complicity in the silk smuggling frauds. There are three indictments against Talcott charging him with receiving and concealing smuggled silk. Three indictments were found against H. B. Claflin & Co. The first contains four counts charging them with concealing 16 cases of silk goods valued at $30,000, in April 1874. The second indictment contains 10 counts and charges them with at various times during 1872 and 1873, receiving and concealing quantities of valuable silks. The third indictment contains 5 counts, charging them with having received and concealed quantities of silks, well knowing them to have been imported into the United States contrary to law.

In addition to statements against Claflin & Co., the U. S. grand jury presented indictments against Chas. W. Field, Aaron Feld, John L. Morris and Wm. B. Fenneion for receiving and concealing upwards of $600,000 worth of smuggled silks during the year 1874.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Diplomatic Poker.

CHICAGO, June 10.—The Times Washington special says the prospect of annexing the rich mining provinces of northern Mexico was not killed by the failure of the Mexican senatorial excursion but is being carefully nourished by the original projectors of the plan. These provinces are full of rich natural resources. The plan is developing through the labors of the Mexican claims commissioner whose work has now drawn near to a close. The claims commissioner has been playing a sort of diplomatic game of poker between the Mexican and American commission. One would heap up a set of outrages and a corresponding amount of damages until an advantage would be gained over the rival. Then the second would raise the first and so the game has been going on. The commission is limited in its labors to the 31st of January 1876. The umpire, Sir Edward Thornton, the English minister, is then to [illegible] to consider the cases submitted. [illegible] at present before the commission have been disposed of with the exception of some 2,000 cases, all of which, it is thought, will be in favor of our government. At present the American claims against the Mexican government preponderate over the Mexican government's claims some $100,000. It is now reasonable to suppose the entire work of the commission will be completed in the prescribed time. When the work of the commission is completed the Mexican government will be largely in our debt. Then it is thought, the most favorable opportunity will be had for capturing these provinces to satisfy the debt.

Supreme Court Decision.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The U. S. supreme court to-day decided the case of the city of Sacramento, plaintiff in error, vs. Paulina C. Fowler, defendant in error, from the circuit court for the district of California. The opinion was delivered by Justice Davis. That the summons was served in conformity with the statute, we think, say the court, is quite clear. The legislature doubtless intended in pursuance of a wise public policy to guard the city from the consequences which have sometimes followed legislation permitting suits to be prosecuted against municipal corporations where process was served upon any officer of the city government [illegible] in such a case public interests might suffer. But no reasonable apprehension could be indulged in this regard, if the chief officer, entrusted by the people with the management of their affairs was notified of the pendency of judicial proceedings. The decision on this point disposes of the case, for if the service was in conformity with the statute the court had jurisdiction of the party and subject matter and the judgment is conclusive against the city until reversed on direct proceedings by the supreme court of the State. The court adds that it is hardly necessary to say that the question of original liability of the city on the bonds sued upon is not open. If the city had any defense to make to them it should have been made when the suit was brought against it in the state court. Judgment is affirmed.

Awards of Alabama Claims.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The commissioners of Alabama claims to-day rendered judgment in favor of Fidel Schoertzer & Co. of California for $[illegible] and L. E. Wertheimer & Co. of California to $1,00[illegible].

Epidemic Measles in the Fiji Islands.

LONDON, June 10.—In the House of Lords to-night the Earl of Carnarvon, secretary of state for the colonies, announced that the government had received dispatches confirming the reports of mortality among the natives of the Fiji Islands from epidemic measles. He also said the authorities of the islands had been telegraphed to spare neither expense nor exertion to stop the progress of the disease. They had also been instructed to take precautions for the preservation of peace, disturbances being apprehended in consequence of the belief of the natives that the pestilence had been purposely imported into the islands.

Amending the English Labor Laws.

LONDON, June 11—1 A. M.—In the House of Commons this morning Mr. Cross, secretary of state for the home department, introduced bills amending the labor laws. They provide that breaches of contract calculated to cause public injury by work people employed in a public capacity, as in the supply of gas and water, shall be dealt with criminally. All other cases shall be regarded purely as matters of civil contract to be settled by county courts. The law against picketing continues in force. The defendants however are to have option of trial by justices or jury. In regard to strikes no agreement to [illegible] any non criminal [illegible] to [illegible] be punished [illegible] conspiracy [illegible] of time.

SUNK AMONG ICEBERGS.

The Steamship Vicksburg Stove by Ice and Sinks.

The Captain and 40 Persons Lost.

Story of a Survivor.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The steamship State of Georgia, which arrived this forenoon brought five seamen of the Dominion Line steamship Vicksburg, from Montreal for Liverpool, which was sunk by ice on Tuesday June 1st. The men were picked up June 5th nearly dead from exposure. They tell a fearful tale of distress. Other boats were launched with a large number of persons but the greater number were seen to perish without getting into the boats. The Vicksburg went down in the midst of the ice and the boats were surrounded by icebergs and field ice when picked up. The other boats have not yet been heard from.

The five men rescued had their feet and legs very much swollen, so much so that their boots had to be cut from their feet. They are still suffering from their great exposure, but recovering as fast as could be expected.

James Crowley's Statement.

We left Quebec Thursday May 27th with a crew of 60 men and eighteen saloon passengers (five gentlemen and three ladies) and about 20 in the steerage, of whom four were females. May 30th fell in with a field of ice and were soon surrounded. The ship was stopped until daylight when we proceeded with but little ice in sight. At 9:30 P. M. Monday all hands were called to shorten sail, and the ship was stopped amongst heavy ice. We proceeded at full speed to get clear of the ice. At 11 o'clock at half speed we struck the ice. The ship struck on the port quarter carrying away the fans of the propeller and a hole was knocked through the plates on that quarter through which the ship made a great deal of water. All hands were then employed in heaving cargo overboard. The second officer and myself were taken from the cargo to clear away the boats. The captain ordered the forward wells sounded and six inches of water was found. The captain called me on the bridge and told me not to mind the boats and then called everybody and told them to have no fears he could take the ship to St. Johns. The captain gave orders to launch the boats with their respective crews and told them to bear in mind that the distance from St. Johns was 120 miles north west. I proceeded to launch No. 1 but it was capsized in lowering. She was full of water. O'Brien and I bailed her partly out when Gragon, Williamson and Williams jumped in. We could not hang on to the ship owing to the sea on and the ice. O'Brien saw the captain on the bridge beckoning the boat back, we having drifted 150 yards from the ship. We saw the second officer's boat lowered and all clear with nine hands and himself. The ship sank about 10 o'clock, floating boat No. 2 with the chief officer and about thirty people. O'Brien after the ship went down saw the captain and some persons floating on a bale of hay among the wreckage. We tried to pick them up, but owing to the boat being half full of water were not able to do so. We kept company with the other boats for about two hours and then lost sight of them. I think forty odd people with the captain went down with the ship.

There are but seven settlers here at present but we are expecting some from California this summer. All we lack to make us happy is a good road to get in and out. We will next week begin to build a road from Mr. H. A. Judson's place to the British boundary line—distance five miles. Then the people of New Westminster are expected to extend their road to connect with it. When we get the road done we shall invite parties to come in and take a look. We have plenty of room for forty or fifty families.

Concerning the immigration into Idaho the Avalanche spreads it on thus thickly: Strangers crowd upon us as thick as autumnal leaves that strew the brooks of Vallambrosa. Every coach comes laden with living freight and the roads from Nevada, Oregon and Washington Territory are filled with wagons containing people, household goods and other freights. They come upon us like the summer complaint without our special wonder, for we have been expecting them and are getting used to have them come. At early dawn they come like the milkman, at dewy eve they come like a washer woman with her bill. Well let them come. They are needed to assist in developing our rich mines and settle up our delightful valleys.

THE TILTON-BEECHER TRIAL.

A Little Explanation—Mr. Beach Continues.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The Brooklyn court room this morning was more densely crowded than yesterday. When Beach entered he was received with a storm of applause.

After a few remarks from Porter, Beach continued in the attack on Tilton, and stating that he had not used the phrase attributed to him yesterday—"Down to hell and say I sent you there," Beach replied that he was sorry he had misunderstood his learned friend but he heard [illegible] and [illegible] thought he [illegible] that at the [illegible] he thought [illegible].

Beach turned to address the jury. He said the effort had been made to represent that the words imputed to Beecher were by plaintiff and his witnesses and were such as were foreign to his style and that [illegible] employed by one skilled in the use of language. The word "paroxysmal" was a good one, and [illegible] known to lawyers in connection with the subject of insanity. He had had the curiosity to examine the published writings of Beecher, and in a single month had found the word used repeatedly. Beach quoted numerous passages from the sermon in which the word paroxysmal and paroxysms were used in regard to religious love and their tender emotions. This comes pretty near to a paroxysmal [illegible]. He then considered the expression "a moral Niagara" and the argument that it was a piece of false rhetoric which Beecher never had used any more than he would have spoken of the moral haystack. He considered this to be a forcible and proper phrase to describe Beecher's position. Beecher did stand on the brink of a moral Niagara from which only the jury could [illegible] him. It was as proper an expression as Dr. Watts' "gulf of dark despair." Beach quoted a number of passages from Beecher's writings to show his fondness for extravagant rhetoric, expressions and liberties which he was in the habit of taking with the English language, among them: "apothecised pumpkin on ethical furrow," "ghastly corpse of an apple pie," "umbrella of a pocket ocean," "a typhoid conscience," "nailstone teaching," "the bill of fare of happiness," "pulverized human," "a horse capture," "carting volcanoes with hills in their [illegible]" and many others. He did not quote these by way of criticising Beecher's style but to show what his style was. Such expressions were natural to the man and were interspersed all through the eloquent addresses which attracted his crowds of hearers and made them burst into applause even in the house of God. Some were the result of the humor which was prominent among Beecher's good qualities. The expression of Beecher to Mrs. Moulton that she always impressed him as a section of the day of judgment had been ridiculed by the counsel for defence who said Beecher did not divide the day of judgment into sections. Well when the day came he thought we should find out that it had at least two sections. Mrs. Moulton constantly urging Beecher to confession was holding before him the day of doom to which his course was leading and he expressed the feeling which she produced upon him. In the matter of the attempt to represent as blasphemous the letter to his wife in which Tilton spoke lately of the character which Christ would have manifested in the position of their marriage and said there was no character which had ever given rise to so much speculation and commentary on the part of Tilton. He spoke of Christ as an historical character but he was strongly dealt by Beecher aside from his sacred character. Beach quoted passages from Beecher's works and sermons in which he spoke of Christ as an historical character and one open to speculation and investigation. He urged that it showed a depth of thought and religious interest which was commendable in Tilton that, immersed in the cares of business he turned to speculate upon such a subject which he treated with no irreverence or indelicacy of expression. In the letter which he wrote upon it to his wife, Beach referred to the love or reverence which all had for the Lord's prayer taught to the child at the mother's knee. He quoted the expression of Beecher in regard to it, in which he said its value was not lessened by the fact that when Christ taught it its sentiments were not new. Thus Beecher spoke of Christ as a plagiarist and is adopting for his own use what had before been respected among men.

Beach referred to Porter's charge of cowardice against Moulton because he carried a pistol to Beecher's, and said Moulton engaged as he was in business which took him about the docks and warehouses and among rude men was in the habit of carrying a pistol for protection in case of need. The whole evidence showed that he had never used a weapon for the purpose of intimidation. He said that Evarts instead of defending Beecher had tried to place Tilton, Moulton and Mrs. Moulton on the defensive, and called upon plaintiff's counsel to exculpate them from the indictment which he brought against them. Beach considered the proposition of Evarts that this form of action was an anomaly and that to bring it was disreputable. It was an extraordinary proposition to come from an eminent lawyer that a proceeding sanctioned by law and brought within the law was a legal anomaly, and that it reflected discredit upon the citizen who resorted to it for the punishment of a seducer. Was there no punishment, no means of inflicting legal chastisement upon him who invaded the sanctity of the household? According to Evarts there was none. Our homes might be broken, our families destroyed, our wives and daughters seduced without any remedy from the law established to protect society. So strong was human feeling upon this subject that it protected the injured man who took the law in his own hands, forgetting the declaration that vengeance is mine, saith the Lord. When had there ever been a conviction of a husband or parent who accepted such a course? But where a man came into a court of justice as the only path which was open to him and restrained his arm from that vengeance which was opposed to the law of man and the Almighty, he was told that his Christian forbearance was ignominious, that he was a miserable seeker after pelf. It was for the jury to say which view they would inculcate, whether they would uphold the doctrine of lynch law and [illegible] or sustain the teaching of Scripture and majesty of the law of the land. He would endeavor to show by and by what claims there were for this forbearance extended by Tilton to this hoary headed seducer, and then they could determine whether this plaintiff desired to be hounded in court. He had no desire to detract from the extravagant laudation of Beecher as a preacher and public man.

Beach said if the case rested on oral testimony alone leaving out that of Mrs. Moulton he should hesitate long to believe the defendant could be guilty of this charge, although it was brought by two men whom he believed to be as pure and honorable as any who had ever adorned the ranks of literature or of that of business which had been so lengthily extolled by his learned friend.

The hour of recess having arrived, Beach took his seat.

Judge Neilson told the court officers that they must exact a promise of quiet from persons in the gallery or the gallery would be closed. He said he scarcely knew what to say to persons upon the floor who had offended against order. If he had not witnessed their conduct he could not have believed citizens could have come into court and disgraced themselves by disturbing the counsel and jury with an obtrusive expression of their opinion.

Recess.

The crowd after recess was as great as in the morning. Tracy and Moulton spoke to each other and laughed as they came in, a circumstance causing considerable surprise and comment among the audience.

Beach resumed his address to the jury and referred to the regret expressed by Porter that W. O. Bartlett had been prevented from engaging as counsel in this case. As Mr. Bartlett was connected with a newspaper in New York he would quote from that journal what might be considered as Mr. Bartlett's present opinion whatever his views might have been in the early stages of the case. He read an extract from an editorial on the case in which it was argued that a superficial good character did not afford insight into the true inwardness of a man or inform us of the bottom facts in a man's career; that the patriarchs of Israel, the men beloved of God were guilty of many sins and the best men in all ages and countries had illustrated the truth of the Westminster confession that we all inherit a corrupt nature and are inclined to all evil. The article sets forth that Beecher had never been inclined to asceticism but has always been disposed to qualify the desires of the flesh. [illegible] Mr. Beach for Bartlett.

Porter—Do you mean to say that Bartlett wrote that?

Beach—I mean to say that Bartlett is closely connected with that journal and in the habit of making to it some of its most able contributions.

Beach asked the jury to look at the precedents of this kind and referred to the cases of a number of eminent divines who had been convicted of adultery and said the great archangel fell, and of two of the chosen disciples of the Savior one denied the Master and the other betrayed Him—these instances of man's depravity and proneness to sin proving that the most exalted are not only not free from temptation but are often too weak to resist it. These might be multiplied a hundred fold. Beach referred to the case of Prof. Webster of Harvard College who holding the highest position in Boston murdered Dr. Parkman under the influence of mercenary motives and under the denial of guilt was tried, convicted and hanged. In the trial as here the argument was that the man from his previous life and reputation could not possibly have been guilty of such a crime. Take away the shield of character, judge of Beecher as of any other man according to the preponderance of evidence, and could there be any doubt as to what the judgment in this case would be? Beach said Evarts inquired with his air of education where were all the letters—lovers always write letters. Counsel was asked why he did not produce the letter and the servants. They had been in [illegible] with the plaintiff; why the servants were not produced but counsel had scarcely [illegible] without evidence; and gentlemen of the jury, said Beach, when a person has gold at his command it was the easiest thing in the world to suppress evidence. Evarts said we had no proofs. We produced the letter of confession and gave the testimony bearing on the guilt of Beecher in his association with Mrs. Tilton and his presence in the house in Tilton's absence and they say we are all wrong and have no proofs of the offense.

Suicide.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Henry Lavine, pawnbroker doing business on Kearney, between Jackson and Pacific streets, committed suicide this morning at his residence No. 717 Vallejo street by shooting himself through the head with a pistol. He left a letter addressed to his wife in which he stated he was involved in financial trouble and unable to preserve his good name. The coroner held an inquest this morning. The verdict was in accordance with the above facts. Lavine was a native of Holland, [illegible] years.

Part of the committee invited a delegation of three from the General Council P. of H. The misunderstanding was explained and the delegation withdrew.

PUGET SOUND.

PORT TOWNSEND, June 5, 1875.

The people on the Sound complain that the spring has been universally damp and cold and that the last month has been the most unpleasant May for many years. The last few days however indicate a favorable change.

PORT TOWNSEND

Ranks among the favorite places on Puget Sound. The bay is five miles long and three broad. It has deep water up to its head. Vessels can enter or leave at any state of the tide or any art of the wind without towing. The anchorage is good and vessels are protected from gales or storms. Being the port of entry for the shipping coming to or leaving the Sound the bay is in all respects admirably adapted for that purpose. Col. L. H. Briggs, deputy collector, says that he has seen within the last six months as many as 37 ocean vessels under sail coming into the bay at one time and that there were at the same time as many as 100 vessels in the Straits only a few miles from the entrance to the bay that could carry an average tonnage of deep sea vessels.

SHIPPING TO AND FROM THE SOUND.

During the year 1874, 66 foreign vessels arrived for cargoes of lumber and 121 U. S. coasters. 244 U. S. vessels arrived from San Francisco. During the same time 73 foreign vessels and 270 U. S. vessels cleared for San Francisco and 34 U. S. vessels cleared coastwise. This does not include a tenth of the coasting trade, as only a few of them require to enter or clear at the custom house.

THE CUSTOM HOUSE

Is a plain building; the office rooms are neat and comfortable and very convenient for the business public. The Hon. H. A. Webster, the collector and Col. L. H. Briggs the deputy collector are most attentive and obliging officers and great favorites with the public. The former gentleman has lately drawn a valuable prize in the form of a beautiful and accomplished wife.

THE MARINE HOSPITAL

Is under the care of Dr. P. T. Minor. There are 30 patients in it at present that are well cared for by the Doctor. The hospital is located on the heights above the town and is admirably adapted to promote the health of the patients, Port Townsend being the place where so much shipping concentrates; this hospital is a great boon to the mercantile service.

PORT TOWNSEND GARRISON

Is located near the head of the bay. It is a good five miles walk to it by the trail, but it amply repays for the walk. There are 60 men at the Fort under the command of Capt. H. Burton, and Lieut. Williams. The grounds, barracks, hospital, and officers' quarters have gone under complete repair and are now in excellent order at a cost of $10,000. The scenery of the bay, the Cascade range and Mount Baker that come into full view from the officers' quarters is grand, perhaps not excelled on the Sound and should be visited by travelers on the Sound who can appreciate the beautiful and the sublime in nature.

THE TOWN ITSELF

Is not as large as a stranger would anticipate from the fact of it being the port of entry for the shipping of the Sound. There are some good stores, quite a number of large saloons and a good hotel kept by Mr. Hunt. On the heights above the business part of the town there are numerous beautiful private residences that do credit to the taste of the proprietors. From these heights commanding views of the surrounding scenery can be had that add much to the health and enjoyment of the residents.

A LUMBER MILL WANTED.

Taking into consideration the splendid bay, the facilities for shipping and the forests of lumber that abound, it seems strange that capitalists have not selected the head of this bay for erecting a lumber mill. To the writer there seems no place on the Sound better adapted for such an enterprise. Had it been in operation this year the profits on lumber would have paid for the erection of the mill. That there will be such a mill built there soon there is little doubt and the sooner the better.

The tide of immigration to the Pacific coast is fully set in, with it comes the demand for new buildings, improvements of all kinds, of which lumber forms an essential part. Capitalists who invest on the Sound judiciously in this business, particularly those who understand it themselves are sure to make money for the next ten years. At the head of Port Townsend bay a lumber mill could be built to the advantage of the owners and to the great benefit of the town and neighborhood.

The Enterprise says the city council of Oregon City seems to have had a time in filling vacancies in office last Monday night. The city assessor and collector, city marshal and night watchman all resigned their positions. The first was filled by the appointment of J. B. Upton and the second by J. R. Morton. John Meldrum was re-appointed street commissioner. The office of nightwatchman was left to the mayor to appoint at a salary of $40 per month and Sam Barclay was appointed.

The Linn County Medical Association met in Albany on Monday. A very interesting paper was read by Dr. R. C. Hill, on Indigestion or Dyspepsia, which led to a short but animated discussion. This being the last meeting for the year an election for officers was held with the following result: Dr. D. B. Rice President; Dr. O. P. S. Plummer Vice President; Dr. J. L. Hill Secretary; Drs. H. G. Boughton, R. C. Hill and D. M. Jones Censors.

A letter dated Baker City June 7th, says: The weather is now warm. Mr. Hyde, superintendent of the Virtue Co., has gone to San Francisco to assist in adjusting Rye Valley quartz difficulties, and will soon return. The Virtue mill will start up again in a few days. That company is working about 70 men and everything is well and promising there. The Ironstone Co. expect, if they can get teams to haul to town 50 tons, quartz crushed at the Virtue mill within the present month.

Work on the State Capitol is being pushed forward rapidly and there are now about 40 men at work. The south end of the main building is now within six feet of the height desired. The contractor has a force of eight men busily employed in riveting, and there are now two girders in position, two more ready to be lowered into place and only one left to be put together. All the work of riveting and lowering to place will be finished about the 19th of this month—so says the Record.

The Olympia Echo says: On Saturday evening last, a sad case of drowning took place at the logging camp of Foster & Rowe at the head of Lynch's Pond in this county. Geo. Nieman, recently arrived from Illinois, aged 24 years, was absent from camp circle in the evening. When the boys had nearly all turned in the young man was still missing. Some remarks were passed concerning his absence, when one observed that he had heard some one hallooing out of doors during the evening. A brother of the missing man went out and called for him but as he received no answer concluded that he would come in during the night. In the morning search was made for the young man who had not returned. At 4 o'clock his hat was seen floating on the water, and a fish pole was standing in the water between the logs. In attempting to haul the pole out of the water it was discovered that something was attached to the end of it, when the body of the unfortunate man was raised to the surface, one cold lifeless hand grasping the fishing rod in the last grip of death. It is supposed that he had been fishing from the boom of logs and lost his balance and being unable to swim cried in vain for help and then sank to rise only in the embrace of death. His remains were buried Sunday afternoon.

At Bannack the quartz men are lively and two mills and two arastras are running. Shenon has just made a fine clean up and Cahart started his mill on Monday. Wadlams is working at his arastra below Bannack and Merry is crushing quartz at the one above. Graeter & Co. have everything ready and are working their mines with water from the big ditch.

THE PORTLAND, DALLES AND SALT LAKE RAILWAY.

COMMUNICATION FROM COL. W. W. CHAPMAN.

PORTLAND, June 10, 1875.

By late advices we are informed that our contracts for the construction of the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake railroad have been received in London and considered and the following modifications proposed, to wit: That we instead of the contractors locate and furnish estimates in detail for 200 miles of the road. Upon this being done the contracts will be signed for the construction of the whole line as fast as estimates shall be made and approved. The 200 miles above referred to will reach from Portland to the town of Umatilla, and in connection with surveys and estimates made by Mr. Blair, our engineer, will reach to La Grande east of the Blue mountains including the Walla Walla branch. It is the intention, if funds for that purpose are supplied, to extend the preliminary line and estimates from La Grande to Baker City this fall. This is desirable in order to facilitate obtaining the right of way and at an early day putting the work under construction. It is proper here to state that after deliberation, and upon advising with some prominent citizens as to the probability of sufficient stock being taken here to carry the modifications into effect, we have accepted the modifications and caused notice thereof to be transmitted to the proper parties. It only remains therefore, for a compliance on our part and all will be right and the great enterprise of the Pacific Northwest a success.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Letter from our agent in New York.

NEW YORK, May 6, 1875.

Col. W. W. Chapman—DEAR SIR: I am only just this day in receipt of news from the contract. It is not signed nor is it rejected. They say they are in earnest about building the road and have the means at their command, all of which is hopeful. But they say they will require some modifications but do not give them in this letter. I shall expect another letter from them very soon. The attorney for the contractors is sanguine that an agreement will be arrived at.

I remain yours, etc.

Letter from the same party.

NEW YORK, May 20, 1875.

W. W. Chapman, Esq.—DEAR SIR: I am in receipt of news from London to the effect that the proposed syndicate of contractors will not sign a contract with us until we have furnished them with estimates of the cost of constructing at least one section. I send herewith copies of the letter of the contractors as represented by Mr. B. [one of the syndicate] to Mr. J., their counselor-at-law, also of the latter's last letter to me which explains the exact position of the matter up to this date. Now, if you can comply, all right. I may also state that Mr. B. has expressed his intention of coming over here in June, and Mr. J., their counselor, will probably accompany him. I am very glad they are coming over here as then we can treat more direct and expeditiously. Yours, etc.

Copy of letter from Mr. B. to H. D. J. (their counsellor.)

LONDON, April 29, 1875.

Dear Sir: The Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad—

1st. We require detailed estimates over such a length of line as the syndicate would after approval be bound to build.

2d. The right of constructing the railway so far as such estimates extend, and the remainder after the estimates have been submitted and approved by them. Of course the first thing to be done is to have the estimates carefully prepared and this I trust you will impress carefully upon your friends on the other side. Yours truly, &c.

Copy of letter from H. D. J., Esq., to our agent in New York, dated May 1, 1875.

Dear Sir: I wrote you last on the 28th ult., and have since received from Mr. E. W. B. a letter in reference to the P. D. and Salt Lake railroad. I know some of the men on the syndicate whose names you are likewise familiar with, and can only add that if the American side will work with us the men are powerful enough to build the line. What they want here are estimates, say of 200 miles, from which they would make a firm contract with the company on approval of the estimates to construct the remainder. This will give them time to survey the remainder. The men appear fully in earnest, but they say "We want to take up the whole business and three millions sterling (fifteen millions dollars) is in England, always a serious matter."

That the public may understand the reason for these modifications it is proper to remark that the contract as originally drawn in London and sanctioned by us, provided that the contractors should survey and estimate the cost of construction and if it did not exceed an average of $30,000 per mile for the whole line then the contract should be carried into effect; if it did exceed that sum, then it should be optional with them. But they have, as we are advised, taken the wisest course for them and safer course for us, to require the surveys and estimates to be made by us. We are safe in assuring that the average cost of our road will not exceed $30,000 per mile, even at the former prices for iron, while it is now found to be one-third to one half cheaper.

Having accepted the proposed modifications, we have engaged the services of Mr. Thielsen as chief engineer to take charge of the survey and make the estimates. His signature will be a sufficient guaranty of the integrity of the work. He puts the cost of making the surveys and estimates at $6,000. If this sum shall be promptly subscribed, the contracts may be finally closed by the 1st of August and the work commenced in September or October next.

With the history of this enterprise and its importance to the country the public must be familiar. Four years have been spent in constant persistent effort for Congressional aid. In this we failed. The day had passed for such legislation. But warned of these possible results we in the meantime steadily progressed with these negotiations to a point where the final result depends to-day not alone upon our efforts, but upon the patriotism and public spirit of our citizens. With much respect,

W. W. CHAPMAN,
President.

The "American orator" still lives and was at the Mecklenburg centennial in all his glory. Hear him: "This day Ebal and Gerizim, Sinai and Calvary, Bethlehem and Jerusalem, all rise fresh before our memories. We have gathered around these old altars of freedom and hoisted the floodgates of our joys. All the nurseries of the land ought to be made vocal with Carolina's songs, and our juvenile orators ought to make them ring in scholastic declamation in the one hundred and forty thousand schools and colleges in the land. It is time we were tearing the poppies from our brows and adorning them with bays and laurels."

The Charlotte (N. C.) Observer thus described some centennial money: There were two bills—one a $10 note and the other a $2—and they were printed on the commonest of paper, the thickness of which was between heavy newspaper and bristol board. One of the bills had on it: "N. Carolina currency. Ten dollars by authority of Congress at Halifax April 5, 1775." On the lower left hand corner was the picture of a peacock. Both the bills are of the same size, say about 2½ inches long and nearly square in shape—and both are perfectly plain on the back.

Paul Boynton amused the court circles at Osborne a good deal by his frank homely fashion of talk. When asked a question by the Princess Beatrice he answered innocently, "Yes, miss," and the queen is said to have laughed outright when at the close of the interview with him he said he hoped her majesty would overlook any defection of etiquette on his part on the plea: "You see, madam, it is not to be expected I'm posted up in this business."

Rejoicing of Gentiles Over the Removal of Governor Axtell.

SALT LAKE, June 9.—The removal of Gov. Axtell is a source of regret to the Mormons who had come to regard him as their particular friend, but causes general rejoicing throughout the Territory among the Gentiles. The Tribune says his incumbency during the next session of the Legislature had been looked forward to with the gravest apprehensions and the removal of the Governor by the President restores confidence in the advancing interests of Utah Territory.

Axtell has asked till July 1st before the change is made that he may arrange all unsettled business connected with his office.

ABOUT POLITICAL PARTIES.

Among the problems in social science which concern the entire community, none is of greater practical importance than that of the relation of political parties to government. It is just now enlisting the attention of men of wide reputation and acknowledged experience in political affairs, and also is receiving such a general overhauling on every hand as demonstrates that the intelligent classes are by no means uninterested spectators of events daily transpiring, nor too much engrossed with the idea of present success to give any thought to the forces that are operating for the future welfare or misery of society. The evils of party are portrayed in as strong a light certainly as the spirit of philosophical inquiry will permit, and no one denies that they are as great as they are claimed to be. But the question of a remedy is not so easily disposed of. While all admit that the inevitable effect of strict party discipline is to produce a corrupt public service and a profligate and oppressive government, and at last to reach and taint society in private life with its corrupting influences, all are at the same time compelled to admit that association, organization, which are but other names for party, is always an important, and often an indispensable means of promoting the progress of truth and the triumph of principle. In a representative government, where the rulers are expected to conduct public affairs in accordance with the views of the people whom they represent, those holding similar views on the subjects which are deemed most vitally important naturally associate themselves together and agree to unite their influence for some particular person or persons for officers, who will administer the g[illegible]ment according to the ideas entertained by them in common. It is right they should do so. And this association, no matter under what form it appears, is a party. To this extent, and so long as it is kept within this sphere of action—so long as it is used simply as an instrument for the accomplishment of lawful and honest objects by lawful and honest methods,—a party deserves the support of all who believe the public weal would be advanced by the accomplishment of those objects. The withholding of support from one's party, under such circumstances, argues an indifference to the public good, a weakness of moral convictions, a want of moral courage, or an interested and unworthy motive.

The evils of party, then, are not in the fact that parties exist, but in the methods by which they pursue their purposes, and the uses that are made of their concentrated power. We must take the world as we find it, not as we might imagine it [illegible] not as we would have it. And thus taking it, perfection will not be expected. There are theorists who believe no political organization is tolerable unless it works without friction, and never has a stain of impurity on the pages of its history. But the theories on which such persons proceed, leave out of the calculation the great central fact that makes government necessary, namely, that human nature is full of selfishness, and easily swayed by interest, prejudice, or passion. They do not take into account that public officers, no matter how chosen, will always possess about as much of this human nature as other people of the same general grade. Human government, at its best, is full of imperfections; and parties, at their best, are liable to be used for putting selfish and corrupt men into official stations. It is idle to expect it will be otherwise in any party. But it is not idle to strive to reduce this evil to the lowest point to which it can be brought by the selection of men of the best standing in private life for public officers. And when a party has become so far a mere instrument in the hands of ambitious men that it habitually fills the stations of public trust with men selected not for their fitness for the service, but for their disposition and ability to employ the influence and patronage of their offices to forward the personal plans of the party managers at the cost and sacrifice of public interests, it has developed a condition which of itself furnishes ground for a new party. The eliminating of such great abuses from an existing party is a public concern of the gravest import, especially when the party in which those abuses have been developed is in a decided ascendancy. It is an object of sufficient magnitude, in the absence of great national issues, to justify the organization of another party, with that idea for its central and inspiring principle. That object alone, had there been no other cause, would have been an ample justification of the organization of the Independent party in this State. And, happily, it is an object that may be accomplished indirectly by forcing the required reformation in the existing parties; so that a failure by the new party to elect its candidates does not necessarily imply a failure to produce the result sought. In this view of the case, if the Independent organization should cease to exist to-day, it would not have been created in vain. It has done a great work in building up a spirit of independence that makes it perilous for any party to practice or tolerate the irregularities which but lately went unrebuked and controlled party organizations, and through them governments. The precedent is now established. The independent movement has shown that it can defeat corrupt parties, even when it cannot elect its own candidates. The managers of the other parties are fully notified and constantly reminded that their tenure of public affairs depends on their good behavior, and may be ended at any time by an independent organization. Thus independent movements are generally productive of good. Thus the independent movement in Oregon has been productive of great good, as is attested in the reduction of public expenditures, and the cessation of the corruptions and tyrannies that formerly attended our elections. We have a freer ballot-box and a less burdensome government.

The Albany Register is now issued in a daily evening edition. The initial number of the daily appeared Wednesday evening.

CALIFORNIA POLITICS.

The proceedings of the Republican State convention of California, which we have by telegraph, indicate that the party in that State is still in the hands of the ring. It was hoped the anti-ring element in the party would be able to wrest the organization out of the hands of the ring, and place it in such an attitude toward the true political and commercial interests of the people, as would entitle it to their respect. There was a hard fight made in the primaries and county conventions, the struggle in some places waxing so warm as to create serious apprehensions of further secessions from the ranks. The probabilities of such an event, however, always seem greater at the moment of excitement than after time has been allowed for passion to subside. The renomination of Page for Congress from the second district, will be a bitter pill for many Republican voters; though it must be conceded that, with the exception of his action on matters strictly partisan, Page has made a very fair member. The unmistakable control of the convention by the ring, will doubtless prove a decided benefit to the Independent party, which is more thoroughly organized in that State perhaps than in any other. Sargent and Gorham and Billy Carr are not names to inspire enthusiasm in the masses.

The communication from Col. Chapman on the subject of the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake railway enterprise will be read with interest. The colonel informs us that persons desirous of knowing the names of the parties with whom he has negotiated, can ascertain the same by calling upon him. No doubt he would be glad to impart any other information that might be deemed proper by persons investigating the subject with the intention of giving assistance.

We are in receipt of the Tenth Annual Catalogue of the State Agricultural College at Corvallis, from an inspection of which we conclude that deserving institution is enjoying a very encouraging and prosperous condition.

We acknowledge the compliment of an invitation to attend the Eighth Annual Picnic and Reunion of the Tuolumne Association, to be held at Oakland, California, June 17th. Preparations are making for a grand time.

MARRIED:

June 3, John Long and Isabella Graton, all of Multnomah county.

In Dallas, June 3, John Waymire and Mrs. Helena C. Palmehn.

In Canyon City, May 27, W. J. Cooksey and Miss Mary R. Venator.

May 9, Byron Murch and Miss Lydia A. Cochran, all of Lane county.

May 30, Marion Wallace and Miss Nancy Vaughn, all of Lane county.

In Stellacoom, June 6, Geo. W. Huntley and Mrs. Tressa McDonald, both of Mason county.

DIED:

In Oregon City, June 4, Willie, infant son of J. W. and Georgia Meldrum, aged 5 months.

In Hillsboro, June 5, Willie Robe, of W. T., aged 18 years.

In Albany, June 10, Velma, Ophelia, wife of Professor R. K. Warren.

At her residence, in Washington county, Oregon, Jane Haynes, wife of Miles Davies, of heart disease, aged 56 years, 10 months and 19 days.

Sister Davies united with the church in 1860, at a camp-meeting held by Nelson Clarke, on the Ames' Chapel camp ground, remained a consistent member and was a true woman in every respect. She leaves a companion and eight children to mourn her great loss. Her funeral was numerously attended, being the largest procession that followed anyone to Ames' Chapel Cemetery. U. C. ROB.

Ordinance No. 1638.

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND ORDINANCE No. 1167, entitled "An Ordinance Relating to Obstructions of the Streets."

The City of Portland does ordain as follows:

Section 1. That section three (3) of Ordinance No. 1167, entitled "An Ordinance Relating to Obstructions of the Streets," be so amended as to read as follows:

"Section 3. No person owning or occupying any building or premises shall place or cause to be placed, or maintain or suffer upon the street or sidewalk in front of such building or premises, any sign or advertisement, or place any goods, wares or merchandise upon the sidewalk by way of show, advertisement or otherwise, to extend more than two feet outside of the inner line of the sidewalk, except the same be placed at a hight of not less than nine feet clear of said sidewalk, or suspend or cause to be suspended, maintain or suffer over the street beyond the line of the curb in front of said building or premises, any sign, advertisement or flag, except upon holidays, election days and days of public parade or display."

Provided, The Committee on Streets and Public Property may issue permits (upon written applications therefor) to use a portion of the sidewalk within two feet of the curb line for placing show-cases, signs and advertisements, but the owner or occupant of the premises to whom such permit is granted shall be precluded from occupying or obstructing any other portion of the sidewalk in front of said premises, except that described in the permit.

Such permit shall continue only during the pleasure of said Committee.

Passed the Common Council June 2, 1875.

W. S. CALDWELL,
Auditor and Clerk.

Approved June 4, 1875.

HENRY FAILING,
Mayor.

REPREHENSIBLE CONDUCT.—Late last even as a gentleman and lady were walking up Fourth street, and had reached a po nearly opposite the court-house, they w met by a crowd of small boys ranging in ye from 10 to 14. The boys began to cast sto and clods of earth at the couple, without apparent reason. At first the gentleman s posed the boys did not see him and the la and stepped to one side, but the boys follow and continued throwing at them for some d tance. Our informant was unable to rec nize any of these boys, or he would doubtl have had them arrested for such reprehensi proceedings. These urchins should be can how they indulge in such questionable pr tices.

TOWING BOATS.—A large powerful boat signed expressly for towing purposes, is to constructed the present season by Mes Buchanan & Bro. The boat will be 150 long, 30 feet beam and 7 feet hold, and will propelled by the most powerful machin which can be built. The lumber necessary the hull has been partially delivered, and c penters are busily engaged in getting the ti bers for the hull. It is the intention to h the hull of the new craft completed and rea for use by the first of September. Mr. R.

FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 11 1875

REPREHENSIBLE CONDUCT —Late last evening a gentleman and lady were walking up Fourth street and had reached a point nearly opposite the court house they were set by a crowd of small boys ranging in years from 10 to 14. The boys began to cast stones and clods of earth at the couple without any apparent reason At first the gentleman supposed the boys did not see him and the lady stepped to one side, but the boys followed and continued throwing at them for some time. Our informant was unable to recognize any of these boys or he would doubtless have had them arrested for such reprehensible proceedings. These urchins should be careful how they indulge in such questionable practices.

COLUMBIA BOATS —A large powerful boat designed expressly for towing purposes is to be constructed the present season by Messrs Stedman & Bro The boat will be 1 0 feet long, 30 feet beam and 7 feet hold, and will be propelled by the most powerful machinery that can be built The lumber necessary for the hull has been partially delivered and carpenters are busily engaged in getting the timber ready for the hull It is the intention to have the hull of the new craft completed and ready for use by the first of September Mr R. H. Ireland has been awarded the contract for constructing the hull CHURCH DEDICATION —The Catholic Church recently erected at Gervais will be dedicated on Sunday next, 13th inst., to the service of God under the patronage of Saints Gervase and Protase, martyrs, whose festival will occur on the 19th inst. In consequence of the indisposition of the Rev Archbishop the Very Rev B. Delorme, assisted by the Rev A C herself will dedicate the church with the usual ceremonies prescribed for such occasions It is expected that a very large congregation will be present We understand a special train will run between Gervais and Albany on that occasion.

THE FORWARD. — Last evening about 8 o clock the British bark Forward arrived at this port from Astoria, in tow of the Annie Stewart The Forward came from Hongkong, and brings a full cargo of Chinese merchandise and a large number of passengers When she came opposite the foot of Morrison street the anchor was dropped and the steamer cast off her lines and left the bark moored out in the stream in the charge of a custom-house officer This morning the bark will be hauled alongside the dock and the passengers debarked.

REV. MR HAMMOND'S FIRST MEETING.

According to previous announcement the Rev L P. Hammond commenced a series of meetings in behalf of the Christian Churches in Portland last evening The first of the series was held at the Presbyterian church, and was announced to commence at 7 45 The audience commenced to gather at an early hour and at the time appointed the audience room of the church was densely crowded many being compelled to stand At ten minutes to 8 Mr Hammond appeared and gave out a hymn entitled Christian go and Tell of Jesus The chorus was composed by the reverend gentleman and is as follows

Yes we'll go and tell of Jesus
The pure and holy meek and lowly [illegible]
Yes we'll go and tell of Jesus
Who died our souls to save

At the conclusion of this hymn there one called Jesus of Nazareth Passeth By This hymn was interlined by Mr Hammond and between the verses short exhortations were made to the audience A second and third hymn was sung, when prayer was offered by the Rev R Bentley Mr Bentley's prayer was for a united and harmonious effort on the part of the Christians of this city that they might receive the blessing of the spirit and the labors of the Evangelist might be blessed and Portland taken for Christ After prayer Mr Hammond read from the first second and third chapters of Acts interspersed with remarks and illustrations urging the Christians to pray for power, and to make personal effort in this cause He spoke of the tabernacle erected in Oakland in two days at a cost of $1 200 and capable of seating 3 000 persons of its being filled to its utmost capacity and of timid, modest men and women but earnest Christians, going about through the large audience and urging sinners to come to Christ The success of those meetings he attributed to the earnest personal effort of the Christians of that city and he hoped that it would be emulated here He said that there was no such thing as getting up a revival a revival came down that as Lyman Beecher said to him when a young man at school, It would be necessary for each one to have a tussle with his own heart then with the church and then with the devil and in the end you would always get the victory A number of anecdotes were given illustrating the power of personal effort and the influence of children Prayer was then offered by Mr Hammond when the hymn entitled We praise thee O God was sung Mr Hammond then requested any one in the audience to ask any question they saw fit as to the manner or means of conducting the meeting, Dr Atkinson wished to know how the children generally he did but He stated that the Rev Mr Spurgeon usually admitted forty children each year. Of the adult persons admitted to his church he had to excommunicate at least two each year, of the children, none Of 163 children in Rochester who joined one church in 1863 seven years after all but two were faithful to their trust The audience was dismissed at 9 o clock but very few went away The larger portion remained until about 10 o clock Some forty persons volunteered to canvass the city and distribute circulars There will be a morning prayer meeting at the Baptist church at 8 o clock A M and a union meeting at the Taylor street church in the evening

ST VINCENT'S HOSPITAL

In the Sentinel we find the following description of the above hospital situated in the northern portion of the city which is just completed

The building is 92 feet long and 40 feet wide It comprises a brick basement 10 feet high with a frame superstructure of three stories in height all of good elevation and so arranged that health and cleanliness is secured to every inmate The building was erected with the view of accommodating one hundred patients and is so arranged that those who desire them can have suites of private apartments separate entirely from the larger wards In the front of the building a niche has been formed where has been placed a life size statue of St Vincent de Paul presented to the Sisters of Charity by the society of that name in this city Around the northern and southern ends of the building verandahs have been constructed so that patients can promenade there in wet weather when unable to go in the open

The said building is entered by a flight of stairs that lead directly from the street and on entering we find ourselves in a spacious hall which leads us on the right to St Vincent's ward a spacious room twenty feet wide and thirty two feet long. It is ventilated by a large number of windows which impart a most cheerful aspect to the apartment This is one of the public wards where accommodation will be given to several patients each bed being enclosed by curtains which are hung on wires running around the bed posts thus securing complete privacy for each patient Returning to the hall again we cross to the left and enter the reception room or parlor of the hospital This room is connected by a door with the dispensary which is fitted up with suitable glass cases, under which are seen hundreds of jars bottles and vials filled with all the various medicines necessary to fill the prescriptions of the hospital physicians two of whom will be in daily attendance Compartments are also allotted to surgical instruments bandages splints and all the necessary adjuncts of the dispensary This department has been fitted up by one of the sisters who for nearly twelve years occupied a similar position in one of their hospitals in the Eastern States

The female department comprises three suites of rooms for invalids next to which is located the room of the Sister Superior This department ends with a bath room for the use of females only

Passing up broad easy stairs we enter on the second story, the central portion of which is devoted to a small chapel for the use of the Sisters to the south of which is the sacristy and the mortuary, where the deceased are laid previous to burial The northernmost portion of this floor is a ward similar in size to that on the main floor and will be known as St Patrick's ward while the other portion of the floor is divided into suites of rooms for the chaplain and for patients This floor has two bath rooms and numerous closets for linen and clothing A reading room and library is located near the center This will be supplied with all the leading periodicals of the world and the library will be augmented from time to time by donations from friends of the hospital The third story is divided into two large wards that on the north being designated St Joseph's ward and the southern portion as St Francis ward In the center is the apartment for the night watch and under the eaves are located two large water tanks which are supplied from a well of the purest water from whence is supplied the cold water used in all the rooms and wards throughout the upper stories This floor is ventilated by twelve windows in the roof, and windows at each end of the building

Passing down the main stairway we enter the basement story which is both lofty and lightsome equal to any portion of the building Entering the first compartment on the left we find ourselves in the spacious kitchen which is fitted up with a very large range and an immense boiler from which is supplied all the bath rooms on the upper floors Adjacent to the kitchen is a neat cellar for the preservation of provisions during warm weather whilst on the north side is the Sisters dining room Crossing the hall, we find two large rooms which are the sleeping apartments of the Sisters and the attendants whilst the southeast portion is divided into suites of rooms for female inmates The other portion of this floor is occupied with bath rooms store rooms and closets whilst under the main entrance is located the community room where all the sewing and repairing for the hospital and its inmates will be accomplished In the kitchen is located a dumb waiter which is intended to carry the meals to every floor in the building so that a vast amount of labor will be saved by this useful invention The hospital grounds will be laid out into walks, interspersed with shady arbors A large number of shade trees have been so arranged that with seats and tables they will form neat grottoes where patients can rest and read during fine weather

The hospital will be formally dedicated and opened for the reception of patients on July 19th the feast of St Vincent de Paul at which time the ceremonies usual on such occasions will be fully carried out

The Pace that Kills.

It is the pace that kills People who live fast get old rapidly Nothing wears out the constitution like dissipation and late hours. Hygeia goddess of health bitterly revenges herself upon all who break her laws not alone those who do so wantonly but even those who are compelled by hard necessity Constant overwork saps the physical structure with no less certainty than dissipated habits There is however an antidote which so far as it is in the power of medicine to retard the wear and tear of the system thus accelerated achieves that object most successfully. This preventive is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters a vitalizing agent without a peer From future decay whether it be the result of inherent weakness hard work crushing anxiety dissipation or disease is stayed in its withering career and the exhausted and shattered system powerfully reinforced by this genial restorative

WAITING.

Waiting For what Shall I ever know
Or shall the new years creep drowsily by Till my death day comes shall I never know
I was born and must live out my life of woe

Is the whole of my lifetime merely a pause
'Twixt my birth that was and my death to be
Must I always follow and never be free
Am I only effect? Can I never be cause

Or am I but a link of the wearyful chain
Of life and the sequence of things one by one
I [illegible] force[illegible] to live [illegible]
But my life is empty and all in vain

Yet sometimes I hear my spirit elate
At the thought of the glorious deeds to be done
[illegible] strike! 'tis the time but in answer one—
Shall I ever know who—whispers Silence! Wait

It cannot be Hope, for her voice is sweet
It is not Despair for I know her well
'Tis like the ceaseless drone of a knell
And wearies the heart with monotonous beat

Shall another voice ever whisper to me
Awake 'tis the hour Go forward and fight
Thy probation is ended and impotent night
Has burst into day So shall set me free

I know not I know not this only I dread,
That ere that voice shall proclaim that hour
Not only the will may be lost but the power
And I may be cold with the nameless dead

LITTLE JOHNNY'S COMPOSITION CONCERNING GIRLS

Girls aint animels but humens wich gro up to be wimmins, same as calfs git to be cows if the butchers mine their businesses Mr Briley is a butcher, but Mr Doppy he has got a red headed whife. Girls has long hair, too lazy to cut it off, and wears frockses, not like me and Billy trousers If I was a girl you'de see me take them things off mity sune, I can tell you, cos they luke diclous in em like sugar lofes only not sweet I hate girls, and Billy he hates em too but not my sister, cos she cant hellup it Uncle Ned wich has been in Injy and evry were, he says he was to a place once were of the little boys like me and Billy hates the little girls like takin pils but after the little boys is grode up and the girls too, they likes em I said Uncle Ned where is that, and he said in Madagasken Then I said Oh that accounts for it them boys is niggers and he said thats a fack, Johnny, they is kind of Obpalte to luke at, but thats wots makes it more sprisin cos the girls is niggers too

My mother she says once that she was a little wee tiny girl her own self good job I dident knoow her then, may be we wudent liked one a nother but I like Mary thats the house maid, wen she aint stuck up and my father he likes pale ail and Mister Glasstone Once my father was a drinkin some, and Gaffer Peters he came to the house, and he said Gaffer Peters, did, wot was it, and my father said pale ail have some Gaffer but Gaffer shuke his head and said I shude think it wude spile less you had a cuver for the pail wy aint it kep in a bark like humen beins I never seen such nufangle ideas as folks is gitten nowadays! Aint an enonerfile a ole man, not a speck of hair, and no teeths neether, wich dont kno any bettern that? Girls is mostly younger than boys, but Mary shees older.

That girl makes mee sick! Yesterday wen Aunt Marthy was to our house with her little baby she give me to mind, wile ol the fokes was in the dinin rume, and her too, she bime by Mary she come a runnin in and said Johnny, mite she gave it a goody, the darlin little angel, and I said yes, mite if she wude so a patch on my little red whaggon, were it was wore out. She said she wude, and what do you think she give it, wy a pickle wolunt which was so big it would hardly go in its mowth Sech stranglin and coffin and holerin was never saw, and wen the fokes come in my father he had to get it out with the handle of a table knife and ol the wile winny ger a bustin out its knose Wen it was ol over, my mother she said Mary, how under the sun did the chile get sech a thing, and Mary said O, if you plese, mum it must have cetched it passin the hospittle But Uncle Ned wich has been to Injy and evry were, he says the little tope must have ben mixing his drinks cos wot it had was a lite fit I dont know what he means, for how cude it mix em les it had 2 mothers

Girls like to play with dols but gimme a hemmer, and a kite, and a whip top and a whaggen, and a hobby horse, and lots of twine, and some nales, and a lot of chock and a wooden saword, and Ile git on with jes the littlest dol which can be made and I dont care whether it has close on it or not Dols is stuft with brand, and soddust but girls is flesh all throo Once when Missus Doppy was here to dinner with her little girl we had mutton, and Uncle Ned he was joking like mad, and he said Sissy wot peece shall I hellup you to, and Missus Doppy's little girl she said if you please Uncle Ned Ile have a leg

In Chaney wen a girl is just borned she is tuke to a blacksmif and has iren shoes put into her feets like horses wich make em stay little, and then wen she groes up and gits marryd to her young man she cant follo him to his club and cant go to his office to luke if he is there like he says, and thats wot I call fair play, cos she cant walk, but wy dont they git in the bus? One time wen Missy was nit to London, she got a bus to go to a shop, and wen she got there she got out and said to the bus man you wait here for me cos wen I get some things I want you to drive me back to Charin-Cros, and then to Madem Two Shoes whax works, if you know where the place is But Missy she says its only jes one of Uncle Ned's storys it wasent Madem Two Shoes but the Zoo

Girls is of very wel wile they they stick to their dolses and sech nonsens but wen it comes to ridin on a sack of coles and playing they was cavalry I say its disgustin but me and Billy is as brave sojers as you ever see

Once there was a Morman wich had so many wifes he cudent hardly count em, and he went away from home, may be to get some more but he stayed away so long livin among wite fokes he forgot, and wen he was reddy to go back he telegraft to home say in Missus Jones, cos that was his name, to meet me at the stashun So wen he got to the stashun the waitin rumes was full of his wifes and children, then he remembered how it was So he kist every boddy he cude find porters and all and then he said were is the little girl and one of his wifes she said Emily you run over to home reel quick and fetch her So pretty sune there was a kanock to the dore and the wummun she said come in, Emily, and there was about twenty girls come in each one fetching a little girl So the man he luked at em and he said wot a fine chile bless my sole how she has grode. Then he said how old and his wifes they begun to tell him, but no 2 alike So he said hold a bit and take a pensle and marked on the wol the different ages wich they said Wen they got done tellin he added em ol up, and said jest xactly 93 years, I thot ol the wile Emily had made a mistake, that girl has fetcht me my grand mother

"Several Paris doctors" says the S cle "have been the victims of a novel sort of robbery An advertisement having lately appeared offering loans to medical men on the simple presentation of their diplomas several young men who had just taken out their degrees made application, and were persuaded to leave these documents for a week, ostensibly for examination However as the quasi money lender had collected a sufficient number he left the country taking with him all the papers, which he can advantageously sell, by erasing the genuine name and substituting those of the purchasers, who would then be enabled to practice medicine—abroad, of course—as French doctors"

Storey, of the Chicago Times, is in jail at last That a man should have slandered almost everything and everybody of pure and good repute for years and at last be sent to jail for what he said about a Chicago grand jury, reminds us forcibly of one of those remarkable episodes of which we often read wherein a man who has gone through a dozen battles unscathed, is at last kicked to death by a mule or killed by a falling tree —St Louis Globe

Gold Bars 70 [illegible]

The reports [illegible] of affairs in the local money market the prevailing condition being one of the utmost quietude with nothing [illegible] to give matters greater impetus The season has now come when business is naturally [illegible] and the [illegible] being good borrowers [illegible] accommodations at our city banks or from outside parties at 10@12 per cent per annum Merchants find but few occasions to come into the borrowing market but if they proffer prime commercial paper it can readily be [illegible] on favorable terms There is no plethora of funds in the market and the money in general circulation is by no means large but for the purposes of trade and commerce the capital of the country is quite adequate to the present demand

During the month of April the mint in San Francisco sent to the San Francisco assay [illegible] and refining works [illegible] ounces of unparted gold [illegible] The amount of [illegible] sent by the refiners to the mint during the same month was as follows

	Ounces	Value
Sent to Mint	[illegible]	$1[illegible]
Sold in market	1,[illegible]	[illegible]
Totals	[illegible]	$1 [illegible]

This is the first fine gold sold in the market this year Nearly $[illegible]000 000 has left New York since January 1st including about $24 000 000 in coin over half of which was drawn from San Francisco The absorbent countries are England France and Germany. The causes for this extraordinary demand are not easily explained It is not because the foreign markets present greater inducements for the employment of capital than are found here The great national banks of England France and Germany are known to be well supplied with funds indeed their vaults are overflowing and there is difficulty in finding customers for their surplus despite the low rates of discount

The good crop of Europe and a general depression in business have led to diminished imports from the United States and at lessened values This of course has restricted the volume of exchange and resulted in firm rates There has also been less demand for bonds of the United States in Europe Railway bonds have been especially unpopular in the last year or two There are no longer any 6 per cent government bonds offering and the sale of the new 5 per cent loan is slow and does not put much ready cash into Uncle Sam's locker since the investments are rather in the order of conversions of previous issues into the new bonds The loss of exchange from these sources has to be met by shipments of gold, and hence the heavy demand

The coinage of twenty cent pieces was commenced at the Carson Mint on the 1st of June in advance of the San Francisco Mint. The rim of these coins is smooth where the rim of twenty five cent pieces are milled The Carson Mint will be closed on the 15th for the annual clean up and the San Francisco Mint will close on the 10th for the same purpose There is such a brisk demand for coin that the stoppage of these mints for even three weeks will be severely felt. The demand has been ahead of the supply ever since the opening of the year

English Wool Sales.

The second series of colonial wool sales in London commenced on the 4th of May and will terminate on the 19th of June This is the popular way of selling this staple in that market There are four or five of these public sales during the year The fifth sale was omitted last year and the same thing will probably occur again this year as the sales now cover a longer period than in previous years. The quantity catalogued for the sale this year up to May 1[illegible]th was as follows

Port Philip bales	112,160
Sydney and Queensland	[illegible]0 600
Adelaide	[illegible]7 400
Swan River	[illegible]5,500
Tasmania	6 200
New Zealand	[illegible]0 400
Cape Town	31 200
Total	[illegible]9 400

The result of the sales for the first week was quite satisfactory There was a large number of buyers present from Great Britain and the Continent and prices for the better grades were higher than during the March series

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—There is rather more feeling in the market than was observable last week but so far it has resulted in nothing of importance in the way of transactions beyond the purchase of a few small lots by millers and one lot for export Prices are nominal and quotations given are about $1 [illegible] per cental but sellers are well enough advised of the condition of the market to investigate before selling

FLOUR—The stocks on hand are not very large and holders are firm Shipments have somewhat declined since our last weekly review but we have no reason to change our quotations of one week ago $5 per bbl for standard extras $4 and [illegible] for outside brands, and $4 for superfine The local trade is quite active

OATS—The surplus does not seem to be quite exhausted yet and a few small lots continue to reach the market Prices however are rather weaker and some lower quotations to day are [illegible] 60 cents per bushel in sacks.

BARLEY—There is but little inquiry at present and only a small amount is changing hands Quotations are unchanged

MILL FEED—The market is still a little short with a tendency to a reduced demand We quote bran at $15@16 50 ₩ ton shorts $22@[illegible] chop middlings, etc $27 50@30 oil cake meal $40 with but little in market.

HAY—A full supply is in the market quotable $10@11 ₩ ton for fair to best timothy loose and $11 @[illegible] baled

POTATOES—Receipts have fallen off and but few of the old crop are left Good lots would sell at $1 50 ₩ bushel

ONIONS—There are but few lots in the market quotable 2 cents ₩ lb nominally

APPLES DRIED—There is a fair demand for fair lots either in sacks or kegs the latter preferred at 6c cents ₩ lb Exports are increasing APPLES RIPE—There are but very few lots of any kind now in the market and no quotations are given as we hear of no purchases.

BACON—This commodity is very plentiful in the market and prices are down to a very low figure say 11@11½ cents per lb for sides [illegible] cents for hams and 8c for shoulders Prices in San Francisco are also very low Our quotations are for good country cured meats and sugar cured is [illegible] cents higher

LARD—Good Oregon made is worth 10c [illegible] in kegs or tins but no sign of an advance

BUTTER—It is difficult to quote good table butter always sells readily in this market while poor stuff is a drug the year round Common roll is worth now 20c ₩ lb

CHEESE—Quotable from State dairies at [illegible] ₩ lb

EGGS—Prices are again down to 11 cents per dozen with full receipts The prospects for a further decline are good

CHICKENS—There are plenty in the market but not very choice We quote at $3 for good full grown and $2 ₩ dozen for spring

BEEF CATTLE—Live cattle in fair condition are quotable at 2½@3 ₩ lb on foot or dressed at [illegible]

HIDES AND FURS—There is a good trade being carried on by local buyers and shippers Beef hides are quotable for choice dry 16@[illegible] ₩ lb green salted 7c green 6c calfs 10@15c elk 15@[illegible] ₩ lb deer 18@[illegible] ₩ lb dried and [illegible] fleece green mink skins each $1 50 otter $[illegible]@5 beaver [illegible]

WOOL—With a careful regard to the condition and quality of lots which are offered buyers are free to take at current prices The quality of that has offered so far has been fair and [illegible] cents ₩ lb has been the ruling quotation so far Dirty or burry can not be placed with buyers [illegible] Latest Eastern and California advices are more encouraging to holders

EXPORTS.

Per steamship Ajax dispatched for San Francisco June 10th—1,515 sks flour [illegible] sks oats 114 bales ([illegible] lbs) wool 108 bbls [illegible] 95 gunnies bacon [illegible] bxs 30 kits 11 kgs hf bbls butter 761 [illegible] eggs 1 keg [illegible] dried apples [illegible] bxs dried fruit 610 lbs goats wool 174 sks flax seed 3 bbls and 6 [illegible] tallow 7 pkgs household goods 1 trunks 1 bx glass 1 bx [illegible] coops chickens 9 kegs beer 3 bbls whisky [illegible] cigars [illegible] sks coffee [illegible] books [illegible] cartridges [illegible] bdls hoops 12 pr elk horns [illegible] dry hides [illegible] dry calf skins 18 bdl leather [illegible] 11 bdls sheep skins 138 salt hides 6 bbls [illegible] 30 pkgs unspecified

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,
FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

This compound of the vegetable alteratives Sarsaparilla Dock Stillingia and Mandrake with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron makes a most effectual cure of a series of complaints which are very prevalent and afflicting. It purifies the blood purges out the lurking humors in the system that undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ or organs whose action they derange and whose substance they disease and destroy AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood When they are gone the disorders they produce disappear such as Ulcerations of the Liver Stomach Kidneys Lungs Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin St Anthony's Fire Rose or Erysipelas Pimples Pustules Blotches Boils Tumors Tetter and Salt Rheum Scald Head Ringworm Ulcers and Sores Rheumatism Neuralgia Pain in the Bones Side and Head Female weakness Sterility Leucorrhoea arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease Dropsy Dyspepsia Emaciation and General Debility With their departure health returns

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER.

This standard article is compounded with the greatest care

Its effects are as wonderful and satisfactory as ever

It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color

It removes all eruptions itching and dandruff and the scalp by its use becomes white and clean

By its tonic properties it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness and making the hair grow thick and strong

As a dressing nothing has been found so effectual, or desirable

Dr A A Hayes State Assayer of Massachusetts says of it I consider it the best preparation for its intended purposes

Buckingham's Dye,
FOR THE WHISKERS.

This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade to brown or black at discretion. It is easily applied being in one preparation and quickly and effectually produces a permanent color which will neither rub nor wash off
